

Pre-Observation Activity

Peer observation is for the benefit of both the teacher and the observer. As the teacher, you should take advantage of this opportunity to receive feedback and support in areas in which you're either looking to grow or perhaps trying new things. Before the observation, complete the following task. Email your response to your observer in advance of the observation.

Describe two things that you want your observer to pay attention to while you teach. Why do you want them to pay attention to these things? How do they connect to your goals for yourself as a teacher?
